

FW: Cul-de-sac drainage at Regency

P

planning

Mon 3/1/2021 1:25 PM

To: planning3

For Planning Board packet.

From: Kathy U <kuber95@gmail.com>

Sent: Monday, March 01, 2021 1:24 PM

To: planning <planning@stow-ma.gov>

Subject: Re: Cul-de-sac drainage at Regency

Jessie, so sorry to bother you again. Were you able to find out how my driveway was approved to have the lowest elevation on this side of the cul-de-sac? Also, have you spoken to anyone about a drain being put in to alleviate the water accumulation at the bottom of my driveway. My daughter was coming with my grandson the other day and I had to go out and shovel the slush before it became solid ice.

I just don't think a brand new home in a 55+ Community that I moved into so I would not have to shovel at 72 years old should not meet that basic requirement of being able to enter my home without having to walk on ice.

Please let me know if there is anything I can do or anyone I should contact.

Thanks so much for your help.

Kathy Uber
21 West View Lane
Stow, MA

On Wed, Feb 24, 2021 at 2:15 PM Kathy Uber <kuber95@gmail.com> wrote:

Jessie, that is disappointing because I have ice across the bottom of my driveway often and it is the only access into my home.

Also, if you look at the original blueprints, my driveway is the lowest point. Should that have been approved? If so, should there be a drain there?

Thanks for your help.

Kathy Uber

Sent from my iPad

On Feb 24, 2021, at 2:10 PM, planning <planning@stow-ma.gov> wrote:

Hi Kathy,